

SLIME, JELLY WORMS & GOO: 4-H FOOD SCIENCE WORKSHOP

Saturday, Dec. 4, 9–11:30 a.m.

Lancaster Extension Education Center
444 Cherrycreek Road, Lincoln

Register by Mon., Nov. 15
by calling 402-441-7180 or emailing kristin.geisert@unl.edu

All youth ages 8–18 are invited to slip into their lab coat and be a scientist! No registration fee.

Workshop will be taught by Trevor Kauer, a University of Nebraska–Lincoln graduate student, who taught last year's 4-H Food Science workshop.

Lab coats and personalized lanyards will be provided as well as the supplies for the fun experiments. Please give your shirt size when registering. Please indicate if your child has a lab coat from last year that still fits, so another coat is not ordered. Note early registration deadline so lab coats can be ordered.

This will be an in-person event. Current directed health measures will be followed. If health guidelines prevent gathering, participants will be notified and it will be held via Zoom.
